

Sybil (Beatteay) Mitchell

"We're in the Army Now"

Writing Assignment: Sybil (Beatteay) Mitchell – “We’re in the Army Now”

Due date:

Based upon discussions in class, and evidence that you have gathered from primary sources examined in class, write a biography about Sybil (Beatteay) Mitchell. How do you think that her life was altered by the Second World War? Was it for the better or the worse? What evidence do you have to support your claims?

Assessment Rubric:

Criteria for Historical Thinking about Significance	Very well	To some extent	To a limited degree	Not at all
Student begins the paragraph with a statement as to whether the Second World War shaped Sybil (Beatteay) Mitchell's actions in a positive or negative way.	3	2	1	0
As the paragraph continues, student reveals evidence from primary sources to support this claim.	3	2	1	0
Student makes more than three references to comparative evidence .	4	3	2	0
Student explains how Sybil (Beatteay) Mitchell's life was changed by the Second World War	3	2	1	0
Student makes reference to at least three specific events (during the Second World War) that relate to Sybil (Beatteay) Mitchell's war experience.	3	2	1	0
Student clearly identifies the significance of the term "C.W.A.C."	3	2	1	0
Student ends the paragraph with a summary statement of what the evidence tells them about their response to the assignment question.	3	2	1	0
Student includes a bibliography of primary and secondary sources.	3	2	1	0